Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 14, 17, 18, 21-30 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The closest prior art of record, Mathis (2003/0119540) teaches a group talk application, Griffin (2004/0015547) teaches the concept of ad-hoc group and Lopponen (2002/0150091) teaches control plane functions to establish the group talk sessions. However, Mathis in view of Griffin further in view of Lopponen do not teach all of the combined features of a method, comprising:

storing a list of subscribers [[in]] of a phonebook application into a phonebook stored in a subscriber device; storing presence information of the subscribers in the phonebook said presence information including information on the availability of the subscribers for a group call;

opening the phonebook application in response to a predetermined input from the user interface; displaying the list of subscribers on the user interface; receiving the user's selection of two or more individual subscribers as an ad-hoc group for a new ad-hoc group call from the list via the user interface;

in response to the user selecting a predetermined operation in the group communications menu or the user pressing a predetermined button, providing appropriate control plane function signaling with a group communication service in a network infrastructure for establishing said new ad-hoc group call with said newly selected individual subscribers and the user of the subscriber device; sending a speech item or a speech item request each time a talk activity is detected or indicated in the subscriber device during said ad hoc group call, wherein said speech item or said speech item request is sent based on settings defined in user plane functions; and deleting the user's selection of the ad-hoc group from the phonebook when said new ad-hoc group call ends.

Thus the cited prior arts alone or in combination do not fairly suggest or disclose the claimed combination of features.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
